MACON, October 19 .- This city was startled this morning by the announcement that Mr. Wm. C. Derry, the book-keeper of the Telegraph and Messenger, was dead. During the morning rumors were rife that he had died under circumstances of a peculiar nature, and it created considerable excitement. It was alleged that he had been a defaulter for a considerable sum and had committed suicide by taking ladanum. The allusions to it on the streets reflected on the management the appointment of the joint committee on immigration, consisting of three bishops, three presbyters, and three laymen, to ascertain the facts connected with the matter.

MR. HANSON'S STATEMENT.

During the conversation that gentleman, said When I took the management of the Telegraph and Messenger Mr. Derry was bookkeeper, and was regarded as thoroughly honest until about the last of November, 1882. He wrote me a letter that he was short about a thousand dollars in his cash. I was thunderstruck at his confession. On account of his family, as well as his old age, decided not to expose him, and paid up the amount of his defalcation. His son, Professer Jeseph Derry, gave me his notes covering the amount. I never uttered an angry word to him in reference to the matter, and was surprised beyond expression, when his real character became known to me. I agreed to let him remain in his position for a time, in order that he might look for some other situation. I noticed a few weeks back that he grew restless and nervous whenever I went about his desk, and looked in his books. His manner changed whenever weeks back that he grew restless and nervous whenever I went about his desk, and looked in his books. His manner changed whenever I did this. I told my brother, H. C. Hanson, who is in charge of the business office, that we must get rid of him. He left the office October 4. We found that there were discrepancies in all our important accounts. I want to see him—have heard that he was sick. On Wednesday night of this week I heard that he had been upon the streets that day. I want to his house and told him what had been developed at the office, saying that while I did not propose to undertake to force or bully him to do so, that I wanted a truthful statement of the facts in connection with some items I proposed to submit to him, and that in view of what had transpired last year, I was not in a mood to be trifled with.

He owned he had continued without interruption to appropriate money from the office, and said that he would furnish was a state. This clause was, on the vote being taken, agreed to.

He owned he had continued without interruption to appropriate money from the office, and said that he would furnish me a statement from memoranda he had of the amount. This he promised to bring to the office yesterday at 5 p.m. Calling at about 6:30, and finding he had not brought the promised statement, I wrote him a note calling his attention to the fact, and suggested that this matter was of sufficient importance to him to warrant his immediate attention. The bearer of this note reported, on his return, that it was delivered to Professor Joseph Perry whe informed him that his father was unconscious. This morning I received a sealed letter from him and a statement inclosed. The statement has a number of memorandums of amounts and foots up $50$ and in his letter he refers to this as statement promised, which amounts and foots up $808 and in his letter he refers to this as statement promised, which I understand, to be the amount of his sbortage since I paid him out of his first scrape."

Major Hanson further said that no one could have been more astonished at the facts of the case than he was, and that he would notwithstanding the severity of the charge have been as lenient as possible with him.

THE HOUSE OF BISHOPS.

At to-day's session of the house of bishops, venerable Bishop Green, of Mississlppi, at his request was excused from further attendance. He took a farewell of the house in a few words of affectionate counsel. The joint committee on education recommended that on the second Sunday after Epiphany prayer be offered for schools and colleges. The report was adopted. It was decided to make the report of the committee of conference on the division of the diocese of North Carolina, the order of the day for Monday next. The bishops of Nebraska, northern Texas and northern New Jersey, were appointed on the joint committee on the spiritual care of emigrants. The house concurred in the message from the house of deputies relative to the French version of the book of common prayer. A committee of reference common prayer. A committee of reference was appointed on the proposed amendments to article 5th of the constitution, relative to the creation of dioceses out of missionary jurisdictions. THE GUILTY WOMAN. In an interview this morning Margare Harris stated that she did not sleep at all, but prayed all night. She was feeling as well as the circumstances admitted; felt that her sins had been forgiven and her soul was ready to meet its God. At 10:35 she was taken from the jail under an escort of fifty picked men armed with double barreled shot guns and conveyed to the gallows which was situated three-fourths of a mile to the north from the courthouse and fifty yards from the Western and Atlantic railroad track. It was the same on which Johnson was hung in Rome. A rope had been streched around the scaffold to seep the crowd back. With the assistance of Sheriff Taylor she mounted the steps. Then 'Jesus Lover of My Soul' was sung in which Margaret joined. Then Rev. W. D. Johnson, Margaret joined. Then Rev. W. D. Johnson, colored, made a very affecting and earnest prayer, during which the prisoner sang to herself in a low tone. After which "Sweet By and By" was sung with great unction, the prisoner joining in with a clear, strong voice. The sheriff then told her that if she so desired she could make a statement to the crowd. The greachers then exhorted her to tell the truth, which she promised to do. Rising and facing the north, she commenced in a clear, ringing voice the following statement:

"Gentlemen, ladies, friends and all; I want you all to be quiet and hear what I say. I am now going to tell the truth. Before God I am innocent of this crime. I hope you will all take warning from my fate, and none of you, like me, ever stand on the gallows. I am innocent of the charge. I did not poison Lela Lewis, but hope to shake hands with her in heaven. I want to meet you all in heaven. in heaven. I want to meet you all in heaven. My kinfolks caused me to stand where I am My kinfolks caused me to stand where I am to-day, and I want them to pray that they can meet me in heaven, as there is no for-giveness there. I want them all to hear me, for they know I am telling the truth, they made me stand where I stand to-day. I heard that some of them said that hanging was too good for me, that I ought to be burnt. Every tub must stand on its own bottom, and if I cannot yet justice here I bottom, and if I cannot get justice here I will in heaven. It is awful to hang when one is innocent. I am innocent. I did not poison Lela Lewis, and want to meet her in heaven. I want to meet you all in heaven. I want I want to meet you all in heaven. I want you to raise your children so that they will never stand on the gallows, but meet me in heaven. I wish that ten thousand could hear me to-day. I hope that poor man will be released as he is innocent. It would be wrong to send him to the chain gang for something he never dene. I want to see my family here, but I can't see them. Some of them will suffer for this. I have been treated better at the jail than I ever was before. Mr. Taylor and everybody has been kind to me. My time is up. Goodbye all. I want to be buried by the side of my mother but they won't let me. I don't care what becomes of my body, just so my soul is at rest. I hope none of you will pester my kinfolks for this, as they have enough to pester them. Good-bye all, my time is up. I must die. I want you all to take warning. Good-bye. Farewell!"

I must die. I want you all to take warning. Good-bye. Farewell!"

The statement grew rambling and she repeated some sentences over and over. Her brother and sister bade her goodbye; the sheriff pinioned her arms and feet, and at 12:07 the trap was sprung. The fall was six feet and her neck was broken. She made no struggle, only slightly drawing up her feet once. In eight minutes her pulse ceased to once. In eight minutes her pulse ceased to beat and in twenty minutes she was pro-nounced lifeless and the body was cut down. It was turned over to her brother and sister for interment. It was currently reported that an effort would be made by the negroes to res-cue her, but no attempt was made. Indeed, cue her, but no attempt was made. Indeed, everything passed off as peacefully as could be desired. Sheriff Taylor and Deputy Sheriff Vick are highly complimented by the good citizens here for the way in which they managed the hanging.

Margaret Harris was about 18 years of age, coal black, five feet two inches in height, heavily built, and weighed 150 pounds. She has only one eye, the right one being out, and altogether her face is not pleasant to look upon. Added to this she has very large hands and feet, which make her apperance even worse looking. To your correspendent she talked freely, but did not seem to comprehend the enormity of her crime. The crime was the enormity of her crime. The crime was committed in August last. She wished to marry a certain negro man, and Mrs. Lewis, who raised her from a babe, opposed the match. She first stated in court that this nematch. She hist stated in court that this negro man, Dave McDowell, or Dave Dukes, as he is better known, and whom she stated she wished to mary, induced her to try to "conjure" the old lady's life away by putting some white beans in a bottle with water in it and burying it with the neck of the bottle downward. She said he told that when the beans becan to swell the old lady would get sick. began to swell the old lady would get sick, and when the beans burst she would burst too. This conjuring process did not "work" and so she said he gave her poison to put in the food. She put the poison in some rice, of which the whole family ate. As soon as they became sick they sent for a doctor, who discovered that they were poisoned, and administered emetics. All have recovered from the effects of the poison but one child which died. She, however, now makes a sworn statement that McDowell or Dukes is not guilty of giving her the poison, or of knowing auything whatever of the crime, but fixes the guilt upon one Dick Barnes, who she says gave her the poison and who told her to fix the crime upon Dave Dukes so that she and Barnes could marry Christmas. On her sworn statement McDowell or Dukes was she was found guilty, and sentenced to penal servitude for life. Sentence has been suspended in his case pending a new trial which has been granted, on the statement which he now swears to. He is an old man 64 years old with white whiskers. He says that he lived about two o'clock in the morning by some one teareng down the window and getting in her room. She asked who it was, and was told it was a white man, and that he would kill her if she screamed. She reached for her pistol and snapped it at him, but, like many other rices it is in the first when reach was the screamed. other pistols, it failed to fire when most need-ed. In this helpless condition the poor wo-man was caught and choked and her mouth covered until the villain accomplished his hellish desires. He then left her and her children screaming with fright, telling them "God damn you, if you don't hush I'll come back and kill every damn one of you." No sooner had he left the house than she ran to a neighbor's house and gave the alarm. She told her friends that it was a negro; she did not know his name, but it was the one who lived on Mr. Moon's place, and had been to her house a few days before to sell her some wheat; that she knew him—the moon was shining, and she could see his size and color shining, and she could see his size and color and could readily recognize his voice. Fifty or sixty men were soon on his track. One negro living on Mr. Moon's place was arrested and carried before her. "He is not the one," she promptly said, and he was liberated. Another one was then arrested, living on the same place. When brought within fifty yards of her she recognized him, and said most positively that he was the right one. This negro had been to her house twice be fore, and had made impudent and imprope remarks to her. She had told her friend about it, and was afraid of him. He was taken to the place where the man had run from Mrs. Swords's house, and the tracks were from Mrs. Swords's house, and the tracks were found to be identically the same. There could be no longer any doubt of his guilt, and it required the hardest kind of persuasion to keep the crowd from hanging him to a limb. He was carried to Loganville and sent from there under strong guard to Monroe, where the grand jury found a true bill against, him next day, and he was put on trial at once, and convicted, and senteced to death within three days from the date of the crime.

On the way to jail he said that he was innocent of this crime, but that he gave that other white woman hell. This remark was explained a few hours later by the appearance of another body of men, who told of the black villain's raping a white lady in another part of the county.

He had crawled into the window and was in the bed before the lady knew it. She was living alone. The negro accomplished his desire despite the lady's efforts. Her people took his tracks, but could not follow them to any distance. They measured them, how ever, and compared tracks, and they were undoubtedly the same. The same night this same negro went into Mr. Sand's house and got into the hed where two of his grown got into the bed where two of his grown daughters were sleeping. The whole family, consisting of seven in number were at home. The screams of the ladies caused the brute to fly, however. A hundred citizens met at Bay creek meeting house and decided if the jury didn't find him guilty they would go to Mon-roe and lynch him. Taylor Bryant was a small black negro, some 25 years old, and wore the face of a hardened criminal. Just a year ago he was liberated from the peniten-tiary after serving a term for this same crime. Judge Hutchins, in sentencing the prisoner to death, delivered the following remarks:

You were indicted by the grand jury of this county for the offense of rape, committed on a poor, defenseless widow, who alone in this world, except with her little children, labored and struggled to earn an honest support for her little family—a woman who had maintained her good fame and virtue, and who might have seein hear made heavy by who might have again been made happy by the love and care of her husband; but a vil-lian by force, and against her will, has robbed her of that which was dearer than life, for in the cantemplation of virtuous women and brave men this crime is inexpressibly more hor rible than death itself. The court deter-mined that you should have a fair trial, and that you should have a fair trial, and that you should not be convicted unless proved to be guilty, and appointed lawyers of high standing and ability to represent you, and, after a calm and an impartial trial in which you were ably represented by your counsel—a jury of your countrymen, selected by yourself—have by their verdict pronounced you guilty. The law fixes the penalty which you are to suffer. Controlled by your animal passions, your assault on this poor woman exhibits you to your fellow-men as an unmitigated brute—a disgrace to your race and to civilization, and the law declares you are unfit to live. Your days are num-bered, and under the law and the verdict of the jury it becomes my painful duty to pro-nounce their limit. For the sake of your wife and children and your own, I regret the heavy doom that hangs over you, however, richly you may deserve it. If you are innocent, so much the better for you, and the worse for earthly courts. You must soon appear before a court where no mistakes are made—where condemnations and judgments are just. You have a soul to save, and I exhort you to look for pardon from Him alone who can grant you pardon.

TAKEN BACK FOR EXECUTION.

Bryant had been brought to Atlanta to be safely kept. Thursday afternoon he was taken to Monroe by Deputy Sheriff Nowell,

A. M. Kemp and George Walker. On his way down he talked freely to the officers and said he had made up his mind to die, but that "he was all right." He slept well Thursday night and yesterday morning ate a hearty breakfast. By sunrise people began to pour breakfast. By sunrise people began to pour into the town to see the execution. They came from all parts of Walton, Gwinnett and Newton and Jasper counties. By noon the streets were thronged and the usual noisy expectation.

CALHOUX, October 19.—Margaret Harris, colored, who poisoned little Lefa Lewis, was hanged here at noon to-day in the presence of a crowd variously estimated at from 3,500 to 4,000 people. Those living at a distance from here came in last night, some even camping on the road. They began to come in long lines of wagons, carriages, buggies, horses and on foot, until by 10 c'clock there was such a crowd as Calhoun has not seen for years. The passenger train from Atlanta brought in a large crowd, not many of whom were from Atlanta, however, being principally negroes fram the towns and stations along the line.

The story of the crime for which Taylor Bryant gave up his life, recalls a singular career of crime. On the night of the 29th of August last, Mrs. Elizabeth V. Swords, a highly respectable widow, who lives alone with her two little children, was awakened about two o'clock in the morning by some I'm going to tell all I know. I saw two white men take a negro out in the river in a boat. They had a dog with them and when he barked one of the men shot the negro. I saw them put his body in the river. I was riding a gray horse on the river bank looking for cows. The men saw me and said it I told they would kill me, but I must tell now. and this is for the best."

Rev. J. H. Hall then said that the prisoner wanted the crowd to sing for him. He gave out line by line the familiar hymn, "A Charge to Keep I Have," and raised the tune with a fine baritone voice. Hundreds of the crowd joined in the song, the doomed man singing clearly and calmly with the rest. As the music rang through the pines several negro women began to shout, and one negro man screamed out: "You see Jesus on de cross! He say its finished. He say it suffice. Glory!" At the conclusion of two verses of the hymn At the conclusion of two verses of the hynm the preacher asked all to join in prayer. A thousand heads were uncovered in an instant and clear above the silent thousands rose said;

"Oh,God! Thou hast promised that Thou wouldst be a shelter in every storm. Come and shield this poor man in this extremity. If the cup of this bitterness may not pass from him speak to his soul and say that thine own son did drfnk it and that Thou lovest those who suffer. When he goes through these deep waters may be feel beneath his feet the rock of thy salvation, and about his neck the arms that lifted Peter from the waves. Through their tossing and their danger lead him safely and bring him to the other shore. Oh! Thou friend of the friendless, to whom shall he turn but unto Thee? Thou hast promised comfort in sorrow and peace in pain. Be with him now and to the end that he may be with Thee where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest."

As these pathetic words fell on the still air As these pathetic words fell on the still air Bryant's lips moved as if he were praying also. He rose and whispered to the sheriff that he was ready. His arms and hands were tightly pinioned and the black cap went over his head. Sheriff Ammons placed the noose his head. Sheriff Ammons placed the noose around his neck and guided him to the trap. Not a muscle of his frame moved and he nod-ded to the sheriff that he was ready for the drop. Deputy Nowell pulled the trigger and Taylor Bryant met his fate. He fell only about two and a half feet His neck was not broken. He struggled as violently as the cords would permit, and for several minutes his body was writhing. The trap went down at ten minutes to one. At one o'clock there was still evidence of life. Five minutes later Drs. R. A. Hammons, Gibbs and Galaway felt the pulse and it was faintly perceptible. In a minute all throbbing had ceased. At ten minutes past one the body was cut down and placed in the coffin. None of the relatives were present. Bryant's wife said she believed he was guilty and she did not want his body.

WHO ARE THEY? The coroner received a letter from two Atlanta physicians declaring that Bryant had initial physicians declaring that Bryant had willed his body to them and they wanted it sent to Atlanta. The coroner declined to recognize this alleged order and took the remains in charge. The coffin was driven back to town to be interred in the pauper cemetery while the crowd jostled and joked along the dusty road as if nothing had happened.

Mejority of Fifty Thousand Believed to be Ase sured for the Democrats in New York-Boomsing Cleveland for the Nomination-But Onio Stands Very Erect.

WASHINGTON, October 19 .-- A gentleman well nformed in current politics, who has just renumber of leading politicians of both parties), eports that it was conceded by every one that the democrats would sweep New York in the November election on the state ticket. Some of the best informed place the majority at forty thousand to fifty thousand. The diferences in New York city local offices had not been fully arranged, but no doubt was entertained but that they would be compromised, and that the democracy would present a united front in the city as well as on the state ticket. To his surprise he found doubt expressed among the best informed re-publicans as to whether President Arthur would receive the support of the delegation from New York for the re-nomination. A movement for Grant is one of the possibili-

The question of the democratic presiden-The question of the democratic presidential nomination was also debated somewhat. Governor Cleveland's friends are talking of him for the presidential nomination, and so are the friends of ex-Congressman Flower, who defeated William B. Astor in a district regarded as a stronghold of New York city republicans. In view of the disposition of many democratic realities, to reminate regarded as a stronghold of New York city republicans. In view of the disposition of many democratic politicians to nominate Mr. Tilden as a candidate for 1884, the gentlemen above referred to made very careful inquiries touching the state of his health. The information received was direct and positive to the effect that, while Mr. Tilden 'might be exempt from sickness and able to enjoy life in his condition of retirement, he did not possess the degree of health which would enable him to endure the excitement of personal interviews and the terrible strain of a presidential canvass. In regard to Butler, no one speaks seriously of him; and there is in New York. Pennsylvania and the eastern states absolutely no strength for McDonald. There did not seem to be any fear as to the result in New Jersey. The talk about Holman as a presidential candidate was regarded as a joke which would do nobody any harm.

The effect of the Ohio election was overwhelming. No republican spoke with any confidence of electing the next president. Among the democrats the idea was that with a prudent nomination victory would be assured. One of the most prominent of the New

New York, October 19.—R. g. Dun & Co., of the mercantile agency, report the business situation does not improve. There is a manifest shrinkage in the volume of trade, indicated by the very marked decline in exchanges in this point, which is shared in by returns from seven of the largest commercial centers. Eleven cities show a slight gain in business, while at nine leading points there is a large loss locally. The demand for mer-chandise shows a decline in volume as the season approaches close, but there has been a the week, as prices have been pretty steadi maintained. Collections have been good and notwithstanding the large increase in the number of failures, the losses as yet, by bad debts do not impair the expectation of a fairly profitable season. The grain market has been irregular, and closes weak at about somewhat downward. For and lard have been fairly steady, with but slight variation in prices. No special change in wool. The money market continues to show remarkable ease, there being a plethora of money for ease, there being a plethora of money for everything except stocks speculation. Bank deposits amount to nearly $500,000,000, showing an increase of $300,000,000 as compared with last year, indicating a large withdrawal of money from speculation. AN EXCITING SCANDAL.

Mrs. Mary E. Johnson Sues for Absolute Divorce From Her Husband, Ell.

New York, October 19.—The trial of the suit for an absolute divorce, brought by Mrs. Mary E. Johnson, formerly president of the Brooklyn Women's Christian Temperance union, against her husband, Eli Johnson, a well-known temperance advocate, after he had brought a suit against Henry C. Higley, a member of Plymouth church, to recover $100,000 for the alienation of the affections of $100,000 for the alienation of the affections of Mrs. Johnson, was begun in the Brooklyn city court before Judge McCue. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were married according to the Quaker custom at Corwin, Waren county, O., March 1, 1852. Mrs. Johnson's maiden name was Mary Coffin. She lived in Richmond, Ind. The case was opened by Mr. Tenney, who said that the action was brought because of adultery committed by defendant at Lake Conesus in August, 1881, during the progress of a series of temperance meetings. He became acquainted with a chambermaid, Mrs. Elvina Annis, who is now Mrs. Cope. They became the talk of the chambermaid, Mrs. Elvina Annis, who is now Mrs. Cope. They became the talk of the town for their intimacy, and often walked or rode together to and from the temperance meetings held some distance from the hotel. Charles A. Gray said that after Mr. Johnson lectured at the campmeeting of Lake Conesus, in 1881, he saw him walking with a woman on several occasions. He was told that the woman was Mrs. Annis. Once he saw them standing in Mrs. Annis. Once he saw them standing in the shade of some trees, and he thought they were hugging and kissing each other. On the following evening, he was walking from the grove, where the temperance meetings were held, to the Long Point house, he heard a rustling noise in the shrubbery, and saw Johnson and Mrs. Annis under a tree.

One day last week his wife told him that the milk looked green on top and said that she believed it had been poisoned. He told her to givo some of it to the cat and see if it would effect it. She skimmed off the green part and gave it to the cat, and when supper time came forgot about the strange appearance of the milk, and gave it to the family for supper. Next morning the cat was found stretched out on the floor as dead as a mackerel, but strange to relate none of the family were effected at all. It is thought that in skimming the milk all the poison was gotten out and given to the cat, and thus prevented poisoning the family.

"How does that verse run? Something like this, isn't it?

"There are who touch the magic string, And noisy fame is proud to win them; Alas! for those who never sing.

But die with all their music in them."

"Yes, that's beautiful, pathetic and true," said your representative. "The poet alludes to people who are somehow suppressed, and never get their full allowance of joy and air. Which reminds me of a letter shown me the other day by Hiscox & Co., of New York, signed by Mr. E. C. Williams, of Chapman, Snyder Co., Pa., a prominent business man of that place. He writes:

"I have suffered with asthma for over forty years, and had a terrible attack in December and January, 1882. I hardly know what prompted me to take PARKEE'S TONIC. I did so, and the first day I took four doses. The effect astonished me. That night I slept as if nothing was the matter with me, and have ever since. I have had colds since, but no asthma. My breathing is now as perfect as if I had never known that disease. If you know of any one who has asthma tell him in my name that PARKEE'S TONIC will cure it—even after forty years," There was a man who escaped the fate of those whom the poet laments.

was a man who escaped the fate of those whom the poet laments.

This preparation, which has heretotore been known as Parker's Ginger Tonic, will hereafter be advertised and sold under the name of Parker's Tonic. Inasmuch as ginger is really an unimportant ingredient, and unprincipled dealers are constantly deceiving their customers by substituting inferior preparations under the name of ginger, we drop the misleading word.

There is no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all bottles remaining in the hands of dealers, wrapped under the name of Parker's Ginger Tonic contain the genuine medicine if the facsimile signature of Hiscox & Co., is at the bottom of the outside wrapper.

A Sport that President Arthur Should Have In-dulged In.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

"Speaking of fish," said the smiling stran-per, "if the president wanter.

"Speaking of fish," said the smiling stranger, "if the president wants to have some genuine fun, he wants to cast a line in some of them geysers. That's where you get fish. I got in there once about a year ago, and ketched 1,000 smelts in an hour and a quarter! And trout! Well, I should whisper in an undertone! I'm shouting, gentlemen, when I say a man can take trout out'o one o' them geysers that'll weigh half a ton! I've done it."

"I thought the water in the geysers was warm," chipped in an unbelieving listener.
"Hot, stranger, hot," protested the unabashed Wyoming man.

'And you pretend to say these fish live

"Inever alluded to the possibility, stranger. I didn't even think of it. Them fish I ketched was dead, every fish of 'em dead and cooked. There's where you get the bulge on all other kinds o' fishin.' You get the fish all ready for the table!"

"That sounds reasonable." observed a keep.

That sounds reasonable," observed a keen-

"That sounds reasonable," observed a keeneyed man. "I think he's telling the truth. I say, how do you catch those fish?"
"With worms, stranger," responded the Wyoming man, eagerly, rejoiced to find a friend in the crowd. "You bait your hook with angle worms, and the fish takes right hold as soon as your sinker touches bottom."
"Then we are to understand that dead and cooked fish will bit a sta book area." "seaked." cooked fish will bite at a hook, are we?" asked the keen-eyed man.

"In them geysers stranger. They won't de it anywhere else. In them geysers they are hungry for worms, and beside that they ain't cooked until you land 'em. You see, the water at the bottom o' them geysers is cold, and it's the hot water at the top, together with the friction, that cooks 'em. You don't see it anywhere his cooks 'em. You don't see it anywhere but in the geysers, but there you never miss it." The Bottle in the Closet.

Some sly old fellows have a habit of keeping their brandy bottle under lock and key, where nobody but themselves can get at it. They think nobody knows how often they go to it, but a red nose sometimes tells the tale louder than words can speak it. The "bottle in the closet" if it contain brandy is warry. founder than words can speak it. The bottle in the closet," if it contain brandy, is very mischievous. But a "bottle in the closet," full of Perry Davis's Pain Killer, is just what no family can afford to be without.

Kimball, H. W., Grady and W. T., Newman, show that they desire to be incorporated for the term of twenty years, with the privilege of renewal, under the name of the H. I. Kimball house company, with a capital of three hundred thousand dollars, with the right to increase the capital stock to one million dollars or any less amount, which said capital of three hundred thousand dollars is to be paid in, either in money or property, suitable for building and furnishing the hotel or for use in connection therewith.

The stockholders are to be liable only for the payment of the stock subscribed for by them and after they have fully paid up the amount of stock subscribed for by them they are not to be bound in their private capacity to any creditor of the corporation. The place of doing business is in Atlanta, in said county and state and such other places as may be proper and necessary, and the business they propose to carry-on is the hotel business and such other business as is usually conducted in connection with a hotel.

And they desire also, the right to purchase or lease and use real estate for a hotel and for a dairy, and to acquire and use all other property that may be needed or used in connection with the business. Wherefore they pray for an order of this court granting the petition. HOPKINS & GLENN.

LORD CHIEF JUSTICE COLERIDGE Was the honored guest of the United States supreme diary. Accident is frequently mysterious court yesterday. The judges tendered him a and wherever there was a mystery it was lay-out later in the evening.

LIEUTENANT GABLINGTON'S report was received at the war office yesterday. The facts related therein contain a merited censure on the blundering method of the signal service

Georgia yesterday. Since last May eleven executions have taken place in this state. There is no state in the union in which a criminal stands so poor a chance of escape than Georgia.

THE action of the Episcopal conference in appointing a committee to look after immigrants is a measure of genuine philanthropy. No class of people stands more in peed of direction than the unsophisticated people who land in New York only to become the prey of sharks and despoilers.

The sad story of a good man's weakness and final struggles in meshes from which he could see no escape, told in the death of Mr. Derry, is one which will call for pity. The temptation which could have led him, after a life of honorable impulses, into the devious paths of error will perhaps never be known

THE report from the postoffice department relative to the business of the southern cities. is of a nature to surprise people at a distance. but is a familiar fact at home that Atlanta distributes more pieces of mail matter than New Orleans, Louisville, Augusta, Charleston and several other cities combined, is largely due to the fact that it is the mailing office THE CONSTITUTION.

THE NEW TIME STANDARD.

The railroad companies of this part of the south are to introduce the new standard time on the 18th of next month, in the place of probably a full dozen. In the whole country there are to be four standards instead of near ly fifty. The four standards are to be known as "the eastern," "the central," "the mountain" and "the Pacific." The two first are to be employed in all the country lying east of the western part of Kansas and Nebraska. The first is the time of the 75th meridian, one minute faster than Philadelphia time, and the other is the time of the 90th meridian. one minute faster than St. Louis time.

This change will undoubtedly prove acceptable except along the meridian where the two standards touch each other Atlanta is on that meridian, and so are Cin cinnati and Columbus and Cleveland. Trains will come from the east to Atlanta and the other towns on the dividing meridian by Philadelphia time, which is about thirty minutes faster than true time, and they will go west by St. Louis time, which is thirty minutes slower than true time. We will therefore have a middle of Philadelphia and St. Louis times, and of course we can adopt neither as a local standard. With local standard or true time and two sets of railroad standards a full hour apart, we must be permitted to express the opinion that our lot will not be greatly improved by Mr. Allen's new time scheme. Atlanta is however at the breaking point, and the heighh of the resulting inconvenience falls to us. At the worst we will be apt to get along as well as we have under the present small confusion that no one can keep in there was nothing in this region for northern mind. But whether for ill or good the new system is to go into effect with the winter schedules, and it will be given a full and fair trial. It will probably stand.

THE NEW ROAD LAW.

The Thomasville Enterprise thinks Thomas ounty will accept the new road law, and the Cuthbert Enterprise is satisfied that Randolph county will also adopt it. The new law is well received throughout the state, and it will loubtless be freely applied before another egislature meets. Two-thirds of a grand jury can give the law effect in their county.

The law has many desirable features. I abolishes all exemptions. All persons between the ages of fifteen and fifty, unless physically disqualified, are to do their part in bettering the public ways. If a man does not want to place himself at the force end of a shovel, he can gain excuse through a commutation tax at the rate of fifty cents a day for ten days. The commutation money is to be expended by the ordinary, and if a man decides to work on the highways, he will do so under "a sworn officer of the law." The law not only relieves the taxpayer of compulsory service, but it provides a sum through commutations that can be expended when and where it will do the most

This law is not all that is needed. It will not give any county macademized roads; but it will do very well as the beginning of a reform in the working of our roads. It will ead, perhaps, to other and better measures. It is a vast improvement upon the present law, which is really a vexation and delusion. The roads have steadily become poorer under the present system, and it is scarcely possible that any county will prefer to retain it when it can have the benefit of a system that will improve its roads, even if it does not turn them into weather-proof pikes.

GINHOUSE BURNING.

We present elsewhere a collection of items relating to the burning of ginhouses in Georgia during the present season. Taking into consideration all the circumstances, the list is a very small one. The carelessness which marks the handling of cotton on the plamtations and the preparation of the staple for market leaves room for heavier losses every year than have ever been known to occur Most of the burnings reported are to be traced to accident, and accident is the result of careessness. On the whole we may well believe that a special providence watches over the ginhouses of Georgia and their precious contents. Matches drop into the cotton and the ginpaper regularly. It is worth the money every day house is burned; a careless smoker knocks the ashes out of his pipe and the same result follows.

> Ten years ago one hundred and thirty-four ginhouses were burned in Georgia during one season; the next season the number was nearly as large. The Savannah News kept the tally for awhile and then the Columbus Enquire took it up, and in the files these papers from 1872 to 1878 may be found a complete record of the losses sustained by the planters of Georgia in the burning of their ginhouses. In 1873, when the largest losses occurred, a majority of the burnings were traced to incendiarism; but the probability is that carelessness was the incen credited to an incendiary.

As a matter of fact the carelessness that prevails even now to a large extent was more widespread ten years ago, and the result was an absolute loss to the planters of many thousands of dollars. This loss, added to the annual and easily estimated losses that are THE law was allowed to take its course in the result of careless handling and packing, made an enormous sum in the aggregate. There are fewer losses from the burning of ginhouses than ever before since the war, and it may be assumed that planters have become more careful. But it is to be hoped that the improvement will go further than this. It is in the power of the cotton planters of the add the value of twenty-five pound of cotton to every bale of the staple they bring to market by the exercise of a little judgment in bandling, ginning, cleaning and packing. As long as the old methods prevail, however, the planter will throw away his most important margin of profit. WILD EXPLANATIONS

A number of our esteemed republican contemporaries are engaged in preaching their semi-annual sermon to the south in relation to the development of its material resources. They take as their text Editor Watterson's lit tle speech before the convention of bankers in which he makes a loud call for the investment of more capital in the south, and they make a great fuss over the matter-each and all making a most strenuous effort to explain why the capitalists of the north do not take kindly to southern investments.

THE CONSTITUTION has no authority to speak for the genial editor of the Courier-Journal, but it thinks it understands fully the motive and purpose of his remarks to the assembled bankers. He knew as well as anybody, and better than some of the editors who are explaining the matter, that these bankers have as much as they can attend to without sending their capital off to the south. Nevertheess his suggestions were clearly in the direction of their influence, and what he said will no doubt have a good effect. But it should be borne in mind that such addresses are almost invariably in the line of perfunctory hospitality. The bankers were assembled in Louisville, and Editor Watterson was invited to address them. Something must be said-something calculated to give them warm hints of the extent of Kentucky hospitality, and at the same time in the nature of a tribute to their power in connec tion with the capital of the country. Editor Watterson declared that the south wants more capital, and he delicately gave the solemn bankers to understand that a word or a nod from them would be sufficient to settle the business. On the whole, we have rarely read a neater or more appropriate address than that which Editor Watterson delivered before the bankers.

But our esteemed northern contemporaries have wofully misconstrued its meaning, Editor Watterson did not say that there is no northern capital coming into the south. He merely informed the solemn bankers that there was a great deal of room in our vast domain for the employment of the surplus capital of the north, and he begged them, with a humorous nod of his head, to inform their friends that capital to be afraid of. In spite of this, the He paid a call on a Baltimore woman in company and shooting, and the rats seemed to think he was esteemed republican organs fall upon the speech with gleeful eloquence and proceed to explain why there is no northern capital coming into the south. One gives one reason, and another gives a dozen.

The reasons are excellent, but they have no asis. The truth of the matter is, northern capital has been coming into the south very rapidly for several years, and it continues to come in just as rapidly as it can see its way to profitable investment. Millions have been invested in Georgia during the past few years, millions have been invested in Florida and Alabama, and we have no doubt that large amounts have been invested in other south ern states. Our esteemed republican contemporaries are at sea. The south is doing well, and it proposes to do a great deal better. Let them confine their explanations to the recent whack in Ohio

OUR WATER SUPPLY

Before any decision is come to in reference to ou water supply, it would be well to glance at what has been done in this regard for the cities of New York, Baltimore and Washington City.

The magnificent Croton works, for the supply of New York, were thought to be ample for a century come, when, lo, scarce a quarter of that period has elapsed, and the great metropolis, in dread of a er famine, is crying out for more water, and is determined, at whatever cost, to supplement Croton supply from other courses.

w determined, at whatever cost, to supplemente croton supply from other sources. Baltimore, boasting of the really gigantic works dengineering skill by which she controls the aple floods of the distant Gunpowder, already rests that she did not, by a slightly increased exmiditure, secure sufficient water for motive power well as for domestic purposes. Washington, the capital city of a great naon, with the national treasury to draw pon; Washington, which had it in its ower to pour the whole current of the Potomac trough its streets and in its parks and squares to warf the great fountains which are the boast and through its streets and in its parks and squares to dwarf the great fountains which are the boast and adornment of foreign capitals, already cries out to congress for more water!

Let the authorities of Atlanta who have the water supplies in charge bear in mind that next to the air we breathe is the necessity of not only an ample, but a profuse supply of pure water, and that by an unwise economy our growing city may find itself in the predicament of New York, Baltimore and Washington, each of which has found out that the costly works which were to supply them with water for all time to come were but temporary makeshifts after all.

LIRUTENANT GARLINGTON'S ARC TIC REPORT

He Explains the Bungling of the Department-T.e Pensioner's Report-The Letter Carriers System-Other Matters of General In-ierest-Chief Justice Coloridge.

WASHINGTON, October 19.-The annual report of the superintendent of the free delivery letter carrier system, shows 104 offices, employing 3,680 carriers, in operation at the close of the fiscal year. ended June 30, 1883. During the year 1,324,637,701 an increase yearly of 16 per cent over the number of pieces handled the preceding year. The total ost of the service for the year was $3,173,336, an inrease of more than 25 per cent over the cost for 1882. The average cost per piece for matter handled is 2 4-10 mills, an increase of 1-10 of a mill a piece over the cost for the previous year. The exess of postage on local matter over the total cost of service was $1,021,894. There were collected and delivered during the year 79,168,699 letters, 261,718,652 postal cards, and 268,319,647 newspapers. The following table shows the aggregate number of pieces of matter handled at a number of the principal outhern cities:

Garlington, commander of the recent Arctic expedition to Smith sound, for the relief of the signal service party at Lady Franklin bay. The report confirms the statements first made by Commander Wildes, of the yantic, with regard to the behavior of Captain Pike's crew. At the first alarm of danger, he says, those on duty abandoned their posts and ran to save their own property in the forecastle and as soon as the stores began to go over the ship's side, they commenced to appropriate everything they wanted, breaking open and riffing boxes and bags, private clothing, and stealing their contents. Captain Pike said, in reply to Lieutenant Garlington's protests, that he was powerless to prevent this plundering of the ship and that the men of his crew were the worst lot of scoundrels he ever saw. In explanation of his course in starting southward after the wreck of the Proteus, instead of waiting for the Yantic, Lieutenant Garlington says:—First, that he did not believe the Yantic could get to Littleton island through such ice as they had encountered, and second, that he expected to find at Cape York the Swedish steamer Saphire and to avail himself of its assistance in carrying out as far as possible, notwithstanding the disaster, the plan for Lieutenant Greely's relief. With regard to the much discussed supplementary orders, Lieutenant Garlington says the only instructions he ever received are the original instructions, published at the time. An unsigned written paper was enclosed in an envelope, with my instructions. This paper is simply an authenticated copy of a memorandum prepared by an officer in the signal office. I was informed that this memorandum was to have been furnished the secretary of the navy to form the basis, instructions to be given the commander of the vessel ordered to accompany the Proteus. The paper was not addressed or signed, indeed, it bore no official marks whatever. I have never at any time regarded it which will be transmitted the secretary of war when received.

THE PENSIONS REPORT.

The report of the commissioner of pensions for the fisest year ended June 20, 1883, shows there were 303,658 pensioners on the roll at the end of the fiseal year. During the year 796 names, whose pensions had been dropped previously, were restored to the roll, making 38, 398 pensioners added during the year, an excess of 10,645 over the preceding year. The average smuni value of each pension was 206, and the aggregate annual value of all pensions was $205,192, an increase of $2,904,090. The amount paid for pensions was $60,064 669 exceeding their annual value by several million dollars. The bulk of this excess was on account of arrears of pensions covering the period prior to the allowance of the claims. The appropriation for salary, fees, etc., to pension agents, was exhausted, and there is a balance due the agents. The whole number of claims filed since 1831 was 886,137, of which 519,98 were allowed. During the same time $621,073,297 were paid for pensions and costs. Colleging it leads to the court.

Colerance in Court.

Lord Chief Justice Coleridge visited the United states supreme court to-day, entering the court com in procession with the justices at 12 o'clock, tanding beside the chief justice and participating in the formal salutation with which the assembled court every day greets the bar. He then took his seat at Chief Justice Waite's right hand in place of Justice Millery white counted the chief formal leave of the court, and was shown through the capital by a committee of the district bar association. This is said to be the first time that any other person than a justice of the court has occupied a seat on the supreme court bench. This evening Lord Coleridge attended a dinner in his honor by Chief Justice Waite. Among those who sat down to the dinner were the attorney general, all the justices of the supreme court, with the exception of Justice Field, and the justices of the district courts. The dinner was followed by a reception, which was largely attended, among those present being Secretaries Teller and Lincoln, Postmaster-General Gresham, the British minister and Civil Service Commissioner Eaton. President Arthur was expected, but did not attend.

THE MURDERED GIRL.

CLEARING UP THE MYSTERY OF ZORA BURNS

The Dead Weman Recognized by Her Father-A Recrease Lover New Believed to be the Guilty Person-Reading the Love Letters-A Mysterous Slicace Observed.

LINCOLN, ILL., October 19 .- The coroner's jury in the Zora Burn's mystery began an investigation with closed doors at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The jury is made up of six of the most prominent citizens. A number of witnesses have been supernaed. One of these is a post-office clerk, who has testified to certain letters mailed from here to Zora, which were not written by Dukes, but by whom the witness refused to state any one outside of the jury, Another witness is understood to have stated to the jury that he saw Zora with a man whom he recognized on the street last Sunday evening, but who this man was he refuses to tell to any outsider. If this remarkable reticence on the part of the officials and the witnesses will be the means of placing the perpetrator of this pitiful tragedy where he can have justice meted out to him, the public will forgive that which now seems the public will forgive that which now seems

The father of Zora Burns is here. He went over to the morgue, looked at the face for some time, speechless, and then said to the coroner: "That is my poor, murdered Zora." Then he kissed the white, mute lips and went away with the authorities, to deal with the cold realities which are necessary in such a case against the city treasurer, washer, Judge Monroe to-day decided that the contract having been made with Hughes, under an ordinance, could not be affected by the city budget subsequently adopted. The writ is therefore made peremptory. The position of city treasurer, washer, Judge Monroe to-day decided that the contract having been made with Hughes, under an ordinance, could not be affected by the city budget subsequently adopted. The writ is therefore made peremptory. The position of city treasurer, washer, Judge Monroe to-day decided that the contract having been made with Hughes, under an ordinance, could not be affected by the city budget subsequently adopted. The writ is therefore made peremptory. The position of city treasurer, however, is regarded as strengthened by this decision, as far as the present budget is concerned.

Killed In the Mine.

London, October 19.—Later particulars of the dered this girl.

It has been learned that one of these letters pointed to an engagement for a meeting with Zora at this place. There is every reason to believe that this particular letter is the one relied upon by the authorities to break the secret which has made this case so pitiful and so mysterious. This hypothesis is believed to be correct, for the reason that so soon as this particular letter had been read the sheriff and his deputy left hurriedly in a buggy and disappeared on a mysterious hunt. Beyond this, however, they said not a word. Their mouths grip the secret as a thunder turtle is said to grip his prey.

Old man Burns has evidently been put under the ban of silence. He refuses every approach of the people of the press. All he says is: "She is my poor murdered child," and the tears come into his eyes, his lips quiver, his hands come together over his forehead a sight hells of the strongle within and ad, a sigh tells of the struggle within and head, a sigh tells of the struggle within and he walks away.

The authorities continued the examination of the letters this afternoon. There are some thirty or forty of them. Most of them are written by Thomas Dukes. He is the brother of the man who married Zora's sister. She was engaged to him. This much the correspondence indicates, and this much the father admits. There is a vague intimation that Dukes is implicated in the tragedy, but the father stoutly refuses to believe any such intimation.

The last letter which Zora received from Dukes was dated from Kewanna, Ind., on July 3d. It is said to be the letter which contains the pointer. One of the reasons why the officers connect Dukes with the affair is that, when Zora's father heard of her murder he telegraphed. Dukes to meet him here. that, when Zora's father heard of her murder he telegraphed Dukes to meet him here. Dukes has not only failed to show up, but he has not answered the message sent by the father. The intimations at first given out that a prominent married man was suspected of the crime, are beginning to dwindle since the correspondence has been examined. Several conflicting statements have been sent out about the movements of the girl after she left the hotel.

When she first arrived in the city she went When she first arrived in the city she went to Mr. Carpenter's office. He was not in. Shortly after she returned and found him there. Mr. Carpenter says all she asked about was as to the whercabouts of her sister, Mrs. Dukes. He inferred from her conversation that she was going to Dakota. Where she went after this is a point that is as yet a secret deep as the murder. The buggy tracks to the lane near where the body was found, as well as the prints of the horses hoofs have been measured and preserved.

The first persons who recognized the dead body at the morgue were the daughters of body at the morgue were the daughters of Mr. Carpenter. That was the first intimation that the family had that Zora had been in town, the father having neglected, it is said, to tell them that she was at his office.

The news that one of the letters furnished by Zora's 'father contained a new clue has caused a feeling of relief in this city. The faint suspicion that a prominent citizen here was involved was received at the time with a feeling of anguish. The closest search is being made, and the officers are hopeful that the mystery will soon be solved.

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENTS.

United States of America, Northern Distriet of Georgia, September Term 1883.

We the grand jurors chosen and sworn for the present September term of the United States courts eg leave to state by way of general presentments hat we have gone through with the business and subjects submitted for our consideration in as thorough a manner as possible. We have made inquiry from the different counties embraced in the ing toward the government and the internal revenue laws than has existed herotofore, and while there are of course many violations of the law, the people generally are giving more aid and encouragement to the officers in its enforcement.

As Georgians we are compelled to express our ies of this state from doing their whole duty in the gret to notice the fact that a number of cases in the ricinity of Atlanta, have been bound over by the United States commissioners which are of a very frivolous and trival character. We specially cal the attention of His Honor to a class of professions witnesses who constantly infest this court. They report many cases in which their pecuniary interest is more plainly manifest than the interest they should take in prosecutions of the violations of the

The grand jury of this term cannot take leave of the court without giving expression of their pleasure, at the manner in which justice is administered by His Honor, Hon. H. K. McCay, the judge of the United States courts. This able jurist has been so ong and so favorably known in Georgia that noth ing we could say will add to his reputation but it is proper that we should state that under his admin stration the law is enforced, fair trials guarante to defendants and business dispatched with great mptitude. We also congratulate the public on the appointment of United States attorney Hon Emory Speer, and his assistant J. C. Jenkins, Esq. who is a courteous and able assistant. During Mr. Speer's incumbency of the district attorney's office a large number of difficult and important convic tions have eeen obtained and a very large propor-tion of all the trials in the government eases have resulted for the government. Still there has been a spirit of kindness exercised toward the convicted parties with a wise discretion, which has increase the popularity of the United States courts. And we believe we but echo the voice of the good law abiding people of the entire district when we thank him for the vigorous and just manner in which he prosecutes violators of the laws of the United States. We also compliment Colonel E. A. Buck and his deputy Mr. Boyd for the manner in which the clerk's office is conducted. We desire to return thanks to Walter H. Johnson, collector of interna revenue, and General James Longstreet, United States marshal, for the one faithful discdarge of the delicate duties devolving upon them. Their selections of regular deputies in this district have been, we think, particularly fortuate, as now the taxes are collected and violators of the law brought to justice without that conflict which was so generally complained of herctofore. We would take occasion, however, to say, that there is a lot of irre casion, nowever, to say, that there is a lot of irre-sponsible parties, claiming to be a special deputy marshals going about through the country intimi-dating and disturbing people who are quietly fol-lowing peaceful occupations at their homes and we nope that the United States marshal will take such steps as will effectually suppress these wanton outrages. We also find that some special deputy mar shals are greatly infringing upon the governmen shals are greatly infringing upon the government for pecuniary gain by imposing on the court officers and causing alarge number of subpoenas fer witnesses without cause or authority. Just at the close of our term we had nine witnesses to come into the room who were unable to give any information on any case, and did not know for what case or purpose they were subpoened unless to pay fees to the deputy who reported them. We find the same practice in the commissioners' courts. We feel it our duties to call attention to these abuses and we respectfully request that these presentments be given to the people through the ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

NEW YORK, October 19.—The Post's cotton report says: "Future deliveries on first call showed a loss of 4©5-100; on second call a further loss of 5@6-100, and before third call prices fell 2@3-100 more. On third call January sold 10.83, February 10.88, April 11.16, May 11.25, June 11.35. The decline is accounted for by the dull accounts from Liverpool and Manchester, but especially by our heavy receipts, which give rise to the idea that more or less of last year's crop may have been kept back. Futures closed steady at 13-100 lower than yesterday."

I have been using Swift's Specific in my practice for quite a long time, and I regard it the best combination as a blood purifier and tonic. It is entirely vegetable, being composed of the extracts of roots which grow in this section of Georgia. I am familiar with its history from the time the formula was obtained from the Indians. It is a certain and safe remedy for all kinds of blood poison and sain humor, and in the hundreds of cases in which I have used it and seen it used, there has never been a failure to cure. I have cured blood taint in THE THIRD GENERATION with it, after I had most signally failed by the most approved methods of treatment with mercury and iodide of potassium. These cases have been cured over fifteet years ago, and have never had any return of the disease in themselves or in their children.

MR. FOSTER, the contractor who is now paving Marietta street, yesterday visited THE CON STITUTION office and made a denial of the statement that one hundred yards of the Belgian block work on that street had been condemned. He expressed a desire that the matter be thoroughly investigated. A reporter was dispatched to City Engineer Angier's office, and from that official a confirmation of Mr. Foster's statement was received. Mr. Angier said that there were places in the street that had sunk since the work had been finished, and that these places would have to be repaired. He declared that the work had struk because it was torn up and sewers constructed after the work had been finished but that Mr. Foster was in no way to blame for it. MORMONS ON THEIR MUSCLE.

A Test Case to be Made Upon the Indictments In Clayton County.

Elder Wilson, one of the Mormon preachers recently indicted by the grand jury in Clayton county for vagrancy, has been in Atlanta several days and professes to be engaged in preparing a defense to the charge in the indictment. The trial will be held at the ad-journed term of Clayton court during the fourth trial will be held at the adjourned term of Ciayton court during the fourth week in November. He announces that he is anthorized by the efficials of the Mormon church to make a test case of this indictment, and that he will be furnished ample funds for the employment of attorneys and to give bond while the case is pending in the courts.

"Have you already secured your attorneys?".
"No, not exactly. I have consuited with several and paid one a retainer, if his services should be needed."

"Will you state who the lawyer is?"
"Not now because we shall have several, and we will want the best that we can obtain."
"What are the grounds of your defense?"
"We deny that we are vagrants, or that we are strolling through the country without a business or visible means of support. We have our commissions as elders in the Mormon church. We are paid our regular salaries and expenses, and carry letters of credit from New York bankers that give us command of ample means at aimost any bank in the country. We stand upon the constitutional right to wor ship God according to the dictates of our own conscience and to preach and make converts anywhere that we choose. We do not preach any doctrine that is either immoral, seditious, or treasonable."
"How about polygamy?"
"We do not preach polygamy. That is not our business. That is regulated within the domain of the church, and not by us."
"Will you appear for trial at Jonesboro next mouth?"

"That is our present purpose. We do not fear the result. And, at any rate, we will take the matter before the highest court for adjudication, if necessary."

"The Graphic so states,"
"Then the Graphic has been absolutely misinformed. I have not applied for the position, and do not wish it. I am satisfied here and could hardly hope to

MURDER WILL OUT.

Captain Bagby Picks a Man Up for a Murder Com-mitted in 1879.

Captain Bagby reached a satisfactory conclusion

As quite wealthy and was a widower. In 1578 he marited a young girl. Not long after his wedding, old man Mosely ascertatued that his bride loved his wealth more than she loved him. The result was quarrels without number. In December 1879, Mosely and his young wife, who was really quite a child, had their last quarrel. During its progress he informed her that he was going to make his will and that she should not be named in it. The next day after the quarrel Mosely went to Abbeville and had a lawyer to draw up his will, promising to sign it the next time he came to town. That night when he reached home he told his wife what he had done. The next day he stayed at home. That night about 9 o'clock some one called him to his door and shot him dead. The murder created a greal deal of excitement, and the excitement was increased by the great mystery. Mrs. Mosely diverted suspicion, if there was any pointing towards her, by offering a big reward for the murderers, but it did not lead to them. The will not being completted, the widow received the lion's share of the estate, and all went smoothly until a few weeks ago, when she made a statement in court during the winding up of the estate which aroused suspicion. The case was worked and two men were arrested and jailed in Abbeville. One of them gave the officers a pointer in the case by which Hughes was located in Georgia. His arrest was delegated to Captain Bagby, who yesterday took him in. It now develops that the widow hired the three men to do the killing. Hughes is in the city prison awaiting transportation to South Carolina.

HUFF AND MARKHAM.

HUFF AND MARKHAM.

The Suit Dismissed from the Supreme Court for Several Reasons-False Rumor.

The Markham-Huff law suit was yesterday dismissed from the supreme court of the state. This suit was taken to the supreme court from the Bibb Augusta circuit... unty superior court and was yesterday dismissed grounds. The case began just one year ago and had its orign in a disagreement concerning the lease of the Markham House by Mr. Huff. In Bibb superior court a bill was filed by Mr. Huff enjoinsuperior court a bill was filed by Mr. Huff enjoining Mr. Markham frem dispossessing Mr. Huff and from foreclosing a mortgage on the property belonging to Mr. Huff in the hotel. The judge of the court granted the injunction, after carefully analyzing a great many affidavits of different persons both for and against the application for the injunction. Mr. Markham's attorneys, B. F. Abbott and E. N. Broy s, filed a bill of exceptions and carried the case it the supreme court where the decision was rende ed yesterday. It appeared to the supreme court hat the transcript was not transmitted to the supreme court within fifteen days of the service of the bill of exception on the defendant and it further appeared that after the record of the proceedings in the Bibb superior court did reach the clerk of the supreme court it was taken out for the purpose of being printed without leave of the court; that the record was taken to pieces and distributed among the printers and then put together again in a defaced and mutilated condition. These facts induced Mr. Huff's counsel, Judge Hawkins and Judge Lyons to move the court for the dismissal of the case and an order to that effect was granted, the court declaring that the record had been so misused and abused by the plaintiff as to exclude him from a review of the case. This leaves the issue between Mr. Markham and Mr. Huff pending in the Bibb superior court.

THE BEERMANN-HUFF LEASE.

Rumors of a sale by Mr. Huff of his lease upon the Markham to Mr. L. W. Scoville have been rife for the past few days, and yesterday evening it was semi-reliably announced that a trade between the gentlemen had been consummated. A CONSTITUTION reporter called upon Mr. Huff last night and asked for a confirmation or refutation of the report. "It is not true," said Mr. Huff. "Mr. Beermann and I have been talking something about a trade, but so far nothing has been done. The truth is the trade has only been talk."

THE TEMPERANCE CAMPAIGN.

Preparations Being Made to Secure a Thorough Can-vass in the Prohibition Elections. Several meeting have been held by the leading temperance officials in this city during the past two weeks, looking to a thorough organization of the temperance forces for the coming prohibition cam-paigns. There are local option acts to be passed paigns. There are local option acts to be passed upon in some forty counties of the state during the next few months, and it is the purpose of the friends of local option to see to it that the issue in each instance is fully and practically discussed by the best speakers whose services for the cause can be commanded. The meetings now being held here, this being the state headquarters, are to receive the services of all temperance advocates and assign them to work in the several fields where the local option question is uppermost.

A number of the most prominent and influential men in the siate have volunteered their services. In a short while the appointments made for them will be published. A vigorous canvass, with means and ample literature, is to be conducted throughout the state, county by county, wherever elections are to be held.

The liquor dealers are also said to be organizing for the fray, but their movements are quiet and their campaign will be in the nature of a still-hunt.

"No, I have done nothing in that respect. I think you know about all that is necessary, and that is that I will take charge on the first, that and my bond is nearly or about completed."

WOUNDED FEELINGS

Dan Taber Sues Mr. Er Lawshe for Damages for Elect-Ing Him from His Store.

The interesting suit in the Fulton superior court yesterday was that of Daniel F. Taber by his next friend, Dr. F. F. Taber, vs. Er Lawshe. The plain-tiff in the suit is a young man well-known in At-iffin the suit is a young man well-known in Atlanta. He is a minor and is the son of Dr. F. F. Taber, the homoeopathic physician and specialist. The defendant is equally well-known as a Whitehall jeweler and optician. The suit was for damages and had its origin in the defendant ejecting the plaintiff from his store on Whitehall street on the 14th of February last. Prior to the little affair of that date, which was witnessed by a number of persons, the warmest friendship existed between the Tabers and the Lawshes. A link in this friendship was the fact that Dr. Jehn Z. Lawshe began the study of medicine in Dr. F. F. Taber's office. But the ejectment not only induced the suit which was terminated yesterday, but constructed a chasm over which hands can never be grasped.

In Master Taber's petition he declares that on the day enumerated therein, he entered the defendants store on businessin a quiet manner, and that while pursuing that justiness he was ejected. He declared that the ejectment was by force, and that the defendant kicked and otherwise abused him in the presence of a crowd, much to the humiliation of the plaintiff. As a panacea for his bruises and humiliation, the plaintiff asked for $200, but the jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION—I have had my attention called to an item in your local column about a con trovesy between Messrs. Ballards Bros. and myself concerning a store room, and as there is a lawsuit already pending between them and myself about the matter, and as such articles in a newspaper is apt to prejudice the public against one side or the other, and as your article is likely to have such effect against me, albeit not so intended by you, I wish to say that, while I like other landlords, like to get all the rent I can fairly, in this case the main reason for declining to extend the lease to them, was that they had, placed in the basement of the store without my knowledge or consent a restaurant, causing great complaint on the part of other tenants in other parts of the building, all of which facts I very much regret.

A New Branch of Business for Atlanta-Wholesale Advertising-A Good Enterprise for the Gate City, Conducted by Men Who Know How to Manage It. Advertising—A Good Enterprise for the Gate City, Conducted by Men Who Know How to Manage It.

We are pleased to note that Ressrs. T. E. Hanbury & Co., have established an advertising agency at No. 13½ Broad street, Atlanta, where they will represent over 3,800 newspapers, trade journals and magazines. The junior member of the firm, Mr. Louis Ravenal, of Charleston, is a gentlemen of fine business qualifications and attainments, and the senoir, Mr. T. E. Hanbury, is an old and experienced journalist, who has successfully managed and edited some of the best and most influential newspapers in the south. For eighteen months he has been successfully conducting an advertising agency and under his management his business has grown to such an extent that he has moved to this city, which he recognizes as the trade center of the state, for the purpose of enlarging his facilities. He is thorough business man, well know to the press and ihe people of this section, and if they have not already done so, we trust that every publication in the country will at once favor him with their best rates. It is scarcely necessary to state that these gentlemen are authorized to represent THE Constitutions, and as that excellent daily paper, the Rome Courier, very truthfully says: "Advertisers who do business through them will make no mistake." They will often come before the readers of THE Constitution, and in advance we recommend them to the confidence of the public, and more especially to extensive advertisers, for whom they can save time, trouble and money. Their rates are the lowest that can possibly be obtained.

VERY MUCHLY YOURS

Thanks for your liberal patronage of the pass week. Every department has felt its quickening impulse, and I am encouraged thereby to ask yet larger favors. I am emboldened also to do se, since I am better prepared to serve you than I have ever been, and I find myself very much inclined in that direction.

I am better prepared to serve you than I have ever been, and I find myself very much inclined in that digection.

In Ready-Made Clothing I have made ample preparations for all, the Boys and Children as well as for the Men and Youths. Every shape and size of man as well as every shape and size of purse (and I find this an important feature) can here be fitted—just as anxious to serve the man who labors for his money as the millionaire.

In my efforts to get up a Complete Stock I have not been unmindful of all those "fixings" that are so essential to a gentleman's "outfit," and my line of Furnishing Goods embraces every article necessary to a man's complete wardrobe, such as Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Underwear of every grade, Half-Hose, Suspenders, Handkerchiefs, Silk Ties and Scarfs in elegant assortment, and everything else pertaining to this line.

In my Hat Department I have a Large Stock, the most complete I have ever had of all the Latest Styles and Best Makes of Hats and Caps for Men, Boys and Children.

I am giving special attention to my Tailoring Department. I have a large and select stock of Fine Woolens from the best American and foreign looms, and my Cutter, being known as one of the most artistic of cutters, I have been favored this season with a very large patronage in this department. I guarantee to give a Perfect Fit in every case or you need not take the suit. Trimmings and Workmanship the very best.

THE MULLEIN PLANT.

Dr. Quillan, a celebrared physician, of Dublin, has just written, in an English medical journal, of his wonderful experimental results with the common mullein plant upon lung and bronchial affections, citing cases where he had given it to consumptives with the most astonishing result, and recommends its use by the profession. Referring to the above, we would state that "Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein," made from the formula of the inedicine men of the Cherokee Nation, is composed not only of the mullein plant, but has incorporated with it the sweet gum, the finest stimulating expectorant known, presenting an agreeable taste and a certain panacea for Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds and all Bronchial Affections. and delighting their thousands of Customers with it. The popular and successful bakers of this city, Messrs. J. D. Brady & Bro. and Mr. F. M. Jack, show their appreciation of the Diamond Patent Flour by using it in the finest breads and cakes to be found on this continent.

And now that the sales of DIAMOND PATENT FLOUR in Atlanta are larger than all other Patent flours combined. It might be said I ought to be satisfied; but "still I am not happy." The quality of my flour is as good as can be made. My profit per barrel is small. I must sell enormous quantities of it to make its sale profitable to me. I therefore offer to retail grocers and bakers iu Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina, who may he in business on South Carolina, who may be in business on Monday, October 22, 1883, and who continue in business, and selling continuously from day to day, until the 30th day of May, 1884, the

To the regular dealer (who buys and sells continuously during the above dates) who can show the greatest percentage of Diamond Patent Flour bought from me AS COMPARED WITH ALL HIS PURCHASES OF FLOUR DURING the said period.

My books will show who will be the happy recipient of the First Prize.
Contestants for the Second Prize will be required to furnish vouchers of ALL flour, of all kinds, bought from October 22d, 1883, to May 30, 1884, (and including those dates), attested before a notary public; and the contestant, large or small, who shows the LARGEST PERCENTAGE of purchases of "Diamond Patent" AS COMPARED WITH ALL HIS PURCHASES of flour will certainly receive $100.00 IN GOLD.

After the audacity which a few days ago made use of the czar of Russia as an advertising medium we were prepared for fun—and got it in good fat lumps. The part of Philkius gives Bishop a chance to revel in all the round, jolly, unctious merit for which the routine comedian is so celebrated; indeed, so accurately does it fit him, and so nicely is it suited to all his peculiar characteristics that we can easily imagine the author and the actor sitting side by side and jointly concecting a scheme to capture laughter from the public, vi et armis.—Richmond Dispatch.
